90 Plus Club

Did you know that the Emeriti Association honors members who are 90+ years with a free meal at all the Monday Night Dinners? There is one catch, you'll have to let us know since we don't maintain birthday records. Just tell us when you check in and we'll note it for future meetings.

Wanted:

Persons interested in sharing their communications & photography skills with the Emeriti Association. We would like to identify several individuals who would be willing to take photos in the future. We're also looking for recent photos of Emeriti events. Send these to Judy Lewis at judylewis@suddenlink.net.

2017 Emeriti Dues

Emeriti Annual Membership Dues for 2017 are due January 1, 2017 and can be paid at the December Monday Night Dinner or mailed to:

Invite A Friend

When was the last time you told someone about an interesting Monday Night Dinner? Next time why not invite them to a meeting to see for themselves what the Emeriti Association is all about? Register your guest when you make your dinner reservation and we'll have their nametag ready. Be sure to introduce them to others and remember, when you bring a prospective new member their 1st dinner will be free!

A new book “OKLAHOMA STATE UNIVERSITY” the development history of OSU by Dr. Charles L.W. Leider will be released on December 5. “Oklahoma State University” is part of a campus history series. It tells the story of OSU from its beginning days as Oklahoma A&M College. The book takes readers through the more than 125 years of OSU history, and the many changes OSU has seen during that time. With the holidays quickly approaching a lot of OSU Cowboy fans will be interested in getting their hands on this book for gifts. For more information about the book, visit arcadiapublishing.com or the OSU University Store universitystore.okstate.edu.

Leider is a professor and director emeritus in the landscape architecture program at OSU. Leider earned a bachelor's degree in landscape architecture from Michigan State University before earning a master's of city planning from Yale University and a doctorate from OSU in environmental science. Prior to becoming an OSU faculty member, Leider served as urban planning director for several leading U.S. consulting firms.
